[JURISDICTION]

BIOSECURITY BILL 2007

EXPLANATORY MEMORANDUM

(This memorandum does not form part of the Bill but is intended only to indicate its general effect)

Background

Biosecurity means the control of the movement of plants and animals and their products in order to prevent the establishment and spread of animal and plant pests and diseases that can harm human health and the agricultural economy of a country. It involves the control of agricultural and food imports and exports, the establishment of a quarantine regime for animals and plants and the control of the movement of animals and plants within the country.

In many countries in the Pacific region, a review of the plant and animal quarantine Acts is long overdue, given the international trend towards freedom of trade and the movement of goods and people. It is also desirable that the Acts on biosecurity of the countries of the Pacific Forum be harmonised as far as possible. This Bill has therefore been drafted with the assistance of the Secretariat of the Pacific Community, as part of a project that aims to modernize and harmonise biosecurity legislation across the region and bring it into line with international obligations of participating countries.

This Bill is intended to replace the existing Acts and subsidiary legislation governing animal and plant imports and quarantine. It will bring together Acts relating to both animals and plants, and provide [Jurisdiction] with a legislative foundation for action to protect it from the introduction of animal and plant pests and diseases. The Bill if enacted will also enable the country to comply with its obligations to ensure that animal and plant pests or diseases are not exported from [Jurisdiction] into neighbouring countries.

Main features

The Bill establishes a regime to control the import and export of regulated pests and diseases (Parts 2, 3, 4 and 5). It also provides powers to control outbreaks of regulated pests and disease within [Jurisdiction] (Parts 8 and 9). The biosecurity functions of the Government are set out in clause 6. The key administrative feature is the provision in Part 10 for the designation of a Director of Biosecurity and biosecurity officers for [Jurisdiction]. These will be existing public officers in the Ministry of Agriculture. The Director will have the functions set out in clause 75. The powers of biosecurity officers are set out in Parts 6 and 7. Parts 11, 12 and 13 contain miscellaneous and legal provisions, including enforcement procedures.

A key definition in clause 2 is that of ‘regulated article’ which includes animals, plants and their products and other articles that pose a biosecurity risk. Under clause 12(6), incoming regulated articles must not be removed from a biosecurity holding area without biosecurity import clearance, except for having biosecurity measures applied to them. Certain categories of outgoing regulated articles also require biosecurity export clearance – clause 34.

Contents of the Bill

The scope of the Bill is stated in the Long Title.

The Bill is divided into 13 Parts, the first of which deals with preliminary matters, including definitions in clause 2.

Clauses 3 and 4 make it clear that the Act will apply to everyone in [Jurisdiction], including the Government.

Clauses 5 and 6 allocate responsibilities and set out the biosecurity functions of the Government.

Clause 7 makes it clear that other obligations relating to bringing in of items into [Jurisdiction] are not displaced.

Part 2 sets out the principles of border biosecurity control. There will be prohibitions and restrictions on the importation of pests and diseases (clause 8). Importation of any regulated article considered an unacceptable risk to [Jurisdiction] will be prohibited (clause 9). The concept of regulated pests and diseases is central to the scheme of the Bill.

Points of entry and departure, such as seaports, airports and post offices, will be designated and importation or exportation elsewhere will be an offence (clause 10).

Holding areas at ports, airports and post offices will be designated for biosecurity clearance inspection of incoming and outgoing regulated articles (clause 11). Holding areas will be strictly managed to prevent animals and plants leaving the area until they have been cleared (clause 12.).

Importers and exporters of regulated articles must appoint an agent if they will not be present at the time of importation or exportation (clause 13.)

Part 3 sets out the rules for incoming and outgoing vessels and aircraft. Every arriving vessel and aircraft must make an arrival declaration on or before arrival (clause 14.)

Vessels and aircraft must obtain landing clearance on arrival (clause 15.) If ordered into quarantine an incoming vessel or aircraft must proceed to port quarantine (clauses 16 to 18). It must then obtain quarantine clearance before landing passengers or cargo (clause 19.)

Clause 20 requires masters and captains of outgoing vessels and aircraft to cooperate with a biosecurity officer who has reason to suspect that there might be on board uncleared regulated articles that require clearance.

Clause 21 imposes on masters and captains of all vessels and aircraft that come into the country obligations with regard to securing the vessel to prevent biosecurity risks. There are also limitations on the discharge of garbage and ballast water from vessels within [Jurisdiction] waters.

Clause 22 sets out the procedure for incoming passengers and crewmembers. They must make a passenger declaration and submit their baggage to inspection. Regulated articles in their baggage will require biosecurity import clearance like any other cargo.

Part 4 establishes a régime for the control of incoming goods once they have been landed from a vessel or aircraft. All incoming goods will be liable to entry inspection at the point of entry to ascertain whether they are regulated (clause 23).

Incoming regulated articles will require biosecurity import clearance (clause 24). They will be liable to biosecurity inspection at a holding area and their import must be declared.

Clause 25 sets out the matters on which a biosecurity officer must be satisfied before biosecurity import clearance can be granted. The requirements may include a sanitary or phytosanitary certificate issued by the country of origin, or treatment of a regulated article on arrival. Biosecurity import clearance will only be granted if all the requirements for import are satisfied, but may be granted conditionally in order to allow the article to be sent for treatment or to quarantine.

The requirements for importing regulated articles will be contained in specifications made by the Director under clause 26. If there are no specifications relating to a proposed import, the intending importer must apply by way of an access arrangement under clause 27 before importing the article.

If the specifications for an article include the requirement for a biosecurity import permit, it must be obtained in accordance with clauses 28 and 29. Clause 30 deals with revocation and refusal of a permit.

The Director will have the power to exempt certain classes of regulated articles from the requirement for an import permit (clause 31). Articles in transit are governed by clause 32, which enables the requirement for a permit to be waived, if there is no biosecurity threat to [Jurisdiction].

Part 5 sets out the controls over articles intended for export. Under clause 33 all outgoing regulated articles are liable to biosecurity export inspection to ascertain whether they require biosecurity export clearance.

Under clause 34, articles will require biosecurity export clearance if a sanitary or phytosanitary certificate is required by the receiving country, or if biosecurity measures need to be applied before the article is exported.

Clause 35 sets out how a sanitary or phytosanitary (SPS) certificate can be obtained. It also requires the Director to keep a record of the SPS requirements of receiving countries.

The decision whether additional biosecurity measures need to be applied to an outgoing article will be made by the Director and contained in specifications under clause 36. The requirement can only relate to animals or plants or their products, not to regulated articles generally, and must be in line with any international obligations of [Jurisdiction].

Once these matters are resolved, clauses 37 and 38 say how biosecurity export clearance can be applied for and obtained for regulated articles that require it.

Part 6 sets out the rules relating to animals, plants or other articles in biosecurity quarantine for observation or treatment. Clause 39 states the general requirement and clause 40 provides for the establishment of biosecurity quarantine stations.

Movement in and management of quarantine stations is controlled (clauses 41 and 42) and items must not be taken out of quarantine until quarantine clearance is granted (clause 43.)

Notices must not be removed (clause 44) and imported animals must not be allowed at large without authority (clause 45.)

Part 7 defines the general powers of biosecurity officers under the Bill. Clause 46 sets out certain general rules and clause 47 deals with entry and search of premises, and conveyances.

Clause 48 regulates the inspection of documents, and clause 49 regulates the inspection of articles. Under clause 50, biosecurity officers will have power to detain articles for testing and treatment. Testing and taking of samples are governed by clauses 51 and 52.

An article may need to be treated to remove the biosecurity risk, or reconditioned or destroyed because it poses an unacceptable risk; clauses 53, 54 and 55 give the necessary powers.

Clause 56 permits the killing of an animal in order to conduct a post mortem examination.

Clause 57 defines the powers of biosecurity officers in relation to people.

Part 8 sets out the powers of the Director and biosecurity officers to control pests and diseases within [Jurisdiction]. Surveys can be conducted (clause 58), and biosecurity officers are given power to enter, search and inspect premises (clause 59.)

Under clause 60 an officer may order animals to be penned for testing and under clause 61 animals and plants may be treated and destroyed if necessary. Compensation will be payable when such action is necessary.

The Part provides for areas to be declared biosecurity controlled areas, with restrictions imposed over the movement into and out of such areas. Clauses 62 and 63 deal with infested controlled areas, and clause 64 and 65 deal with pest-free controlled areas.

Clause 66 enables wild animals to be destroyed if they pose a biosecurity threat.

Under clause 67, all persons in [Jurisdiction] will have a duty to report an outbreak of certain pests and diseases.

Under clause 68, the Minister will have the power to authorise the release of biological control agents in order to control or eradicate pests and diseases.

Part 9 provides powers to deal with biosecurity emergencies in [Jurisdiction] which cannot be dealt with under Part 8. If an emergency is declared under clause 68, the Director is given extensive powers to deal with the emergency, if necessary with the assistance of the police and other Government personnel (clauses 70 and 71.).

Special regulations can be promulgated under clause 72 to give additional powers to the Director and other persons. These regulations would only remain in force for as long as the emergency lasts.

Part 10 sets out the administrative framework for implementing the Act.

Clause 73 provides for designation of the Director and Deputy Director.

Clause 74 provides for designation of biosecurity officers, including temporary ones. Officers can be designated from other departments and can be given specific functions.

Clauses 75 sets out the functions of the Director in relation to the Minister and Secretary, while clause 76 sets out the functions of the Ministry in respect of biosecurity.

Clause 77 empowers the Minister to give directions to the Director and the Director to give directions to biosecurity officers.

Clause 78 enables various powers to be delegated. and sets limits on the power of delegation..

Clause 79 requires the Director to keep extensive registers of all biosecurity decisions and activities. Under clause 80, entries in a register will be admissible as evidence in court.

Part 11 sets out some ancillary administrative provisions needed to allow the Act to function effectively.

Clause 81 specifies the biosecurity funds available to the Ministry and empowers the Minister to seek additional finance for implementing the Act if necessary. It also specifies the destination of fines, fees and charges.

Clause 82 provides for [\[local authorities\]](#) to have certain powers in relation to biosecurity surveys and strategies.

Clause 83 requires the Minister and Director to consult other Government departments, and empowers the Director to outsource aspects of biosecurity work if needed.

Clause 84 seeks to encourage coordination between different departments of the Government. and other statutory authorities.

Clause 85 requires operators of points of entry and departure (i.e. ports, airports and post offices) to provide facilities for biosecurity inspection or incoming and outgoing articles.

Clause 86 requires owners of ships and aircraft and warehouses to ensure that biosecurity officers have safe transport and adequate accommodation for performing their inspection functions.

The Part provides mechanisms to facilitate the biosecurity inspection process. Under clause 87 the Director can enter into compliance agreements with persons who regularly import or export regulated articles; and under clause 88, private premises can be approved as places for the inspection and treatment of regulated articles.

The Part also provides for cooperation with the international community in international activities in the field of biosecurity. Under clause 89, the Minister or Director can enter into bilateral or multilateral agreements on biosecurity matters; under clause 90, the Director may issue international advisory notices about the status of pests and diseases in [\[Jurisdiction\]](#).

Part 12 is concerned with enforcement of the Act and specifies offences and penalties.

Clause 91 creates the offence of dereliction of duty by biosecurity officers. Clauses 92 and 93 create various ancillary offences that might be committed by importers and passengers relating to information, documents etc.

Clause 94 prescribes the maximum penalties for all the offences in the Act. These are listed in the Schedule. Corporations will not be liable to imprisonment but will be liable to higher penalties (clause 97 and 94(3)).

Clause 95 provides for forfeiture of items connected with the commission of offences.

Clause 96 establishes a system of fixed penalties, to simplify the processing of offences at the seaport and airport and limit the number of matters ending up in court.

Clause 97 specifies higher maximum penalties for corporate bodies.

Part 13 contains a number of miscellaneous provisions for implementing the Act.

Clause 98 extends the [Jurisdiction] of the Magistrates Court to deal with offences under the Act and enables the Director to take cases to court. Clause 99 says how abandoned goods will be dealt with.

Clause 100 says how compensation, if provided for, will be calculated. Clause 101 says how appeals from decisions made under the Act are to be dealt with.

Clause 102 says that public officers taking action under the Act in good faith are not liable, and the Government and Director are not liable for things done under the Act except as provided.

Clause 103 provides for the evidentiary status of certificates and other documents created or used under the Act.

Clause 104 states the rules about publication of regulations and orders made under the Act; they should be given wide publicity in the areas affected by them, and must also be published in the Gazette.

Clause 105 defines the status of specifications made by the Director; they are not strictly legislative but must be entered in the biosecurity register and given due publicity.

Clause 106 enables the Minister to make regulations to supplement the provisions of the Act. These can include fees and charges for biosecurity services.

Clause 107 provides for the repeal of the [\[Plants Importation Act, Animals Importation Act and the Fees Regulations?\]](#). It also makes savings in respect of certain provisions.

Clause 108 makes transitional provisions for the smooth introduction of the Act, and clause 109 makes consequential amendments to other Acts as a result of the enactment of the Bill.

Clause 110 provides that the Schedule can be amended by order of the Minister but only with the approval of the Parliament.

The Schedule lists all the sections which create offences and sets out the respective maximum fines and terms of imprisonment that can be imposed for them. It also sets out the fixed penalty for those offences that can be dealt with by way of fixed penalty under clause 96.
